👕 Throw away fashion 👕

Nowadays people buy lots of clothes every week which uses natural resources such as water, cotton and linen. Whereas in previous times you might only buy a special thing every few months! Prices in shops like Primark are very cheap so they could break really easily so you buy more and more. Have you ever mended anything? Or did you just throw it away? Before the 20th century people couldn't afford more clothes so they had to wear stained, damaged clothes or they repair them.

Do You Think Before You Buy?

Are you a stationary diva?

Do you really think before you buy your stationary? All the Tinc and Blot pencil cases are cute but did you know that they are by the same company?

Also do you just buy the stationary because it looks good or because you really need it?

What the plastic could be used for

All the plastic could be used to do good to our planet. If people recycle their old stationary instead of keeping it somewhere in their bedroom then it could be made into new toys for the poor. If you have any old stationary then try to recycle it or reuse it for something useful for the future. So try to make your old stationary into something new.

Stationary

Most people buy stationary because it looks cute or nice. Lots of people think that Tinc and Smiggle are the best stationary shops because they are very well known, but other shops can be just as good. All the plastic and rubber used to make pencil cases and small cute rubbers could be used to make simple household items for the poor people. Some stationary is unusable and only used for display but expensive. Some of the rubbers are made out of plastic and if people try to use them then they'll smudge the writing. So try not to spend so much money on expensive stationary.

Focus on Waste by Catherine Turrington

Current recycling

Ideas to think about.

At home, how could you recycle electrical items?

How could we not waste them?

How could we make best use of our electrical equipment?

Waste Week

Waste week is a bit like switch off fortnight but focuses on not throwing too many things away. At school we are going to have a green heart day. This means that everyone in school can come into school wearing any type of green heart they can make (including cake). RSM waste week is running from Monday 14th March to Friday 18th March. We will be thinking about what we throw away, and what we waste but don't really think about.
